“ I met Doug when he was 15 and became a cousin in law for 33 years. We all had good times at his mom, Joey and dad Dale's place in Clearwater. Eating great food and all playing cards or some other games or out fishing on the lake they lived on. After I remarried to another Boilermaker and we were all retired we enjoyed going out to Wire and Cathy's place . Jesse and Wire liked to rib each.. Jesse's a good one at that. They'd get each other going about what big slug's the other one was and crack up. Jesse would crack up all the way home..

You'll be missed. Condolences to Cathy and all the family

“ Doug was a darn good Boilermaker and a good hand to have on the job.

A highly skilled welder, Wire was always ready to help the new guys, with patience and clarity, while insisting that the job was done the right.

He wasn't afraid to speak his mind, to insist that the his fellow boilermakers be treated with respect, and that the job be as safe as it could be, even in the dirty and dangerous conditions we all shared.

Doug was a truly unique individual, and I always enjoyed working with him.

Condolences, and all the best to his family and loved ones.
