“ He called me, Butch. A nickname I had as a kid. This past year I spent many a day and evening visiting with uncle Doug and heard stories of his childhood ( I had been stationed at Fort Devens just miles from his childhood home and did not know that). He talked of his time in the army, his injuries in Korea and return to the US. He told me about how he met the love of his life and how he missed her. He spoke of his children and grandchildren. I miss his humor, his laugh, and that contagious accent and smile. I only hope that I stay in contact with his family for through them he lives. Perhaps, just perhaps they will call me Butch.
