“ Jerry and family, My heart goes out to all of you. When mom died we received the following poem. To this day I pull it out often to remind myself of what life is. I hope you too can find some peace in it. But I realized also that "time" is the biggest factor.

Life is Goodbye.

Life is Change.

Life means having and holding-then letting go and giving up-even what we love the best.

Life is Hello.

We can survive loss.

We can move beyond endurance to accept new and different joys in our lives.

God Bless, Mary##imported-begin##The Tschida's##imported-end##

“ I am so very sorry. I had not had word since I lost my computer to a virus last Nov--just got it back without addresses or messages, so haven't kept up or had contact with anyone else who might have. My heart goes out to all of you. David and I talked often of our honeymoon on your living room floor in 1970. I will be in Denver for my granddaughter's birthday and will miss seeing you. Know that my thoughts and prayers will continue beyond--call me anytime. It's a very hard first year. I am here. I had a vision of David and grandma Scholl greeting her and dancing--may that help you in the days to come. My hugs, my prayers, and my love, Barb##imported-begin##Barb Scholl##imported-end##

“ *Jerry and Family,
Know that Geri was loved and fought a brave fight. She will remain in my memory as a strong woman who held off the enemy as long as she could. You are in our thoughts and prayers at this sad time.
