Biidwewekwe, Joycelyn Marie Shingobe, was born on January 4, 1952, in Cloquet, Minnesota, to Joseph and Susan (Mitchell) Shingobe. She received her associate degree at Brainerd Community College and a bachelor's degree in American Indian Studies from Metropolitan State University. She later received her Master's in Tribal Administration & Governance (MTAG) from the University of Minnesota-Duluth. Biidwewikwe was a skilled orator and preservationist of Ojibwe history and culture, with an emphasis on The Mille Lacs Band history, past, present, and future. A skilled craftswoman, she remembers her time spent with her Grandmother, Jenny Mitchell, and Cecilia Dorr as the inspiration and beginnings for her continued artistry and further contributions to her fellow Anishinaabeg. Biidwewikwe began her career in education working for Head Start, and throughout her professional career, she remained a champion for education for young and old. Eventually, she was appointed the Mille Lacs Band of Ojibwe Commissioner of Education, where she oversaw the band's educational programs and services. A true leader in her community Joycelyn always advocated for education from Early Head Start to Higher Education and donated to various charities. She was Mide and a drumkeeper. She made moccasins for all kinds of ceremonies, even shared her talent with those willing to learn. Joycelyn enjoyed beading, quilting and proudly assisted her son Jourdain with traditional harvesting such as ricing and maple sapping. She liked to spend her time reading, attending various ceremonies, being with family, and keeping up with the WWE on TV. Joycelyn loved to celebrate birthdays and holidays with family by going all-out with food and creating a memorable feast for everyone. She loved the birds and made sure she always had birdseed to fill up her bird feeders around her house and caring for her cats.

Biidwewekwe is survived by her mother, Susan M. Shingobe; sons, John Benjamin and Jourdain Wedll; daughters, LeAnn (Mark Solis) Benjamin and Lorelei (Ernest) Boyd; grandchildren, Heather, Amber, and Joseph; great-granddaughter, Nyah; brother, Kelvin Shingobe Sr.; sister, Charlene Shingobe; and many loving relatives and friends.

“ Biidwewekwe was a mentor, friend, & hero to many Anishinaabe. A strong, proud, educated, Anishinabe woman. I was proud when she introduced me as a friend of hers, as well as a fellow Mille Lacs Band member when we were at a conference in the southwest together about 10 years ago.

She helped me when I was going through the same type of surgery she had gone through a year before. She gave me the confidence to go through it, even though it would be painful.

My heartfelt condolences go out to her mother, Susan, LeAnn, Lorelei, John, Jourdain, Amber, Heather, Joseph & little Nyah. Biidwewekwe is a great loss to Anishinabe Education and an even greater loss to the Anishinabe community. My thoughts and prayers to all the Biidwewekwe touched and to those who never got the chance to know her and learn from her.

Journey well to the Land of Everlasting Happiness Biidwewekwe

Miigwetch. My mother touched many in so many ways. She will be missed by many. I still can't believe she is gone and I will miss her tremendously. Thank you for your kind words and we will all do our best to live each day without her.
