“ I worked with Mark at Wolters Kluwer, he was so excited to get hired in the tech department. We have had many conversations over the years, the last ones were about the book of Revelation. It was fun to tal to him - Mark had a keen, inquiring mind. I pray God gives the Doroff family His peace, comfort and strength during this season.

“ By far the best is the winter of 11th grade all us friends were partying at the blue barn and Matt Loscheider and I buried ur car in a pile of snow and made it look like just a big snow pile in the yard. U didn't belive we could accomplish that in the short time we did and we're looking all over for ur car. Then it happened u saw the antenna sticking outta the snow bank!! u were so impressed that your frustrations with us turned to laughs and pats on the backs as Brain Justin pulled it out. It also became one of the best pranks of the year. Im pretty sure everyone knows of this story.
