“ We worked together as electricians at the City of Minneapolis Water Department and became good friends. Our friendship lasted several years up until I retired in April 2016 thereafter we parted ways. You were a very hard worker and you got the job done. You kept a clean and safe work area. I admired that about you. You had a sense of humor that made me laugh. The world needs more laughter. You were a big man with a big appetite. When we worked together at the Dewatering Plant I would leave and return with Subway sandwiches. We would make ourselves comfortable in the second floor electrical room and devour those subs. We ate fresh! You served your country. Thank you for your military service. Remember the Memorial Day at Fort Snelling National Cemetery when we walked around the grounds observing the thousands of white headstones. The experience was a heartfelt and sincere moment for us. You are now resting with other military service men and women. That's comforting to be there among them. I shall and will pay my respects at your graveside at Camp Ripley Veterans Cemetery soon, very soon. Section 6, gravesite 1071 next to the Maintenance Building. Yup, life can be beautiful and life can be cruel. Life is no bowl of cherries! In ending, you Ronald T. Neeser are at rest. In a sleep that is eternal. When I pass away we'll meet somewhere, someplace in the clouds. I won't bring Subway sandwiches because the subs won't be fresh. Gary
